

BLIND WOMAN SAYS HUSBAND DESERTED HER

Applies with Two Children to Municipal Lodging House for Help.

In the Municipal Lodging-House, at No. 100 First avenue, to-day sat a woman with sightless eyes, holding a two-months old baby in her arms, while a golden-haired lad of two years clung to her dress, crying bitterly for his father.

"Never mind," sobbed the woman. "I will come, papa will come." But as she uttered the words to soothe the child she knew that she was telling an untruth, for, deserted by her husband, because of the loss of her eyesight, she had been compelled to throw herself on the mercy of the city.

The woman is Mrs. George Koebel. Until a few days ago she lived at No. 100 West Thirty-ninth street, with her four children. In the home she had known happiness for thirteen years. Then, just before the Christmas of 1904, her eyesight failed as the result of the birth of a child. The child died. Mrs. Koebel's sight dwindled gradually away until eleven weeks ago she found herself unable to do any housework.

Lost Interest in Home.

When she told her husband of this she says he lost all interest in her. On Washington's birthday he took their five-year-old son George out for a walk and failed to return. Mrs. Koebel struggled along with the other children until hardly a scrap of bread was left in the house and then she went with them to the Municipal Lodging-House.

Briefly and simply she told her story to Supt. William C. York. When he heard it all the Superintendent's eyes blazed with indignation and his fist came down on his desk with a force that set the little Koebels crying.

"If I had that man here for two minutes," he exclaimed, "I would, I would mind. We'll do the best we can. You will remain here indefinitely with your two youngest ones. The other two will have to go to the Children's Society."

And so Mrs. Koebel is one of the guests of the Municipal Lodging-House. She doesn't know what next will happen to her, she doesn't seem to care much, for she is absolutely powerless. "I suppose I'll lose the children," she said to a reporter for The Evening World to-day. "Yes, the charitable societies will take the little ones away and I will go somewhere where they take care of blind folk. There isn't any use of complaining. The Lord's will be done and I suppose it is all for the best."

Still Loves Her Husband. "I have always loved my husband. I still love him. He is a German. I was a young Irish lass when I married him thirteen years ago. I had just come over here from the County Leitrim, in Ireland, where I was born. We were happy, very happy, until this affliction came. It was brought on by the birth of a wee little fellow who died.

"My husband is a driver for a fish company. He earns about $20 a week and could support us if he wanted to. But I suppose he doesn't want to leave a blind wife on his hands."

"In all my experience with poverty this is the most distressing case that has ever come to my attention," said Supt. York. "I am going to hold her here for a while in the hope that some one will give her a little assistance so that the family will not be broken up."

AGED COUPLE DIED SAME DAY

Howard and Mary Hasbrouck, Who Celebrated Their Golden Wedding Two Years Ago, Not Parted in Death.

Howard and Mary Hasbrouck had been devoted husband and wife for fifty years and more. They were playmates in childhood and lovers in early youth, and to-day they are dead together in their home, No. 58 West One Hundred and Forty-sixth street. Death came to them both yesterday. At 4 o'clock in the morning he murmured her name as he was breathing his last and she answered back, and seven hours later she was calling his name as death came upon her.

About their bedtimes when the last greeting was spoken were their children, Mrs. A. W. Hasbrouck and Mrs. Garrett E. Hasbrouck of Closter, N. J., and George G. Hasbrouck.

She was twenty years old when she changed the name of Luedenburg for that of Hasbrouck and Stone Ridge and Marblinton, in Ulster County, made the marriage the great event of the year. Two years ago the Hasbrouck and Luedenburg clans again gathered in honor of the couple, for it was their golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Hasbrouck was stricken with paralysis three months ago, and soon afterward a cancer of the stomach began to develop dangerous symptoms in her husband. Both had been helpless for weeks, and on Saturday night the aged woman began to sink.

Altogether simultaneously came the change for the worse in her husband. The Hasbrouck family is well known throughout Ulster County, one of its members being Judge Hasbrouck, of the Supreme Court.

WHY MEN GROW WEAK.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Makes Men Healthy, Strong, Vigorous, Powerful.

"It indeed the pace which kills. It is not work which injures. It is over-work, worry, confinement, over-taking the strength, strain upon nerve and body, distraction of mind, springing debility which breaks down the health, weakens the nerves, exhausts the body. You become weak, nervous, restless or fretful, have dizziness, bad feeling head and unsteady and trembling nerves, urinary troubles, a feeling of anxiety, gloom and discouragement, appetite and digestion fail, and you have kidney troubles, nervous prostration, constipation, heart palpitation, and finally paralysis—insanity—death."

Now, what is the remedy? Obviously, something which will rebuild the shattered nerves, restore tone and vitality to the blood, brain and nerves, and strengthen and invigorate all the organs of the body. There is nothing else known which will so completely and permanently do this as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, the greatest of medicines which is restoring the health of the people, recognized at the present day as the master remedy of the world.

Dr. J. Mittleman, of 1642 South St., Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I was more than pleased with the effects of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in my case. Nothing I took in the way of medicine relieved me, and I just went about my business day by day in a half-hearted and almost mechanical manner; but one bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura made me feel myself appear brighter to me. It braced my nerves up so well that business once more became the pleasure it had always been before. My head was clearer and my digestion better. I recovered in the use of the Nervura and I have never since had a return of my nervousness or indigestion. The result was wonderful. My personal appearance improved and I found myself gaining rapidly in health and strength. Dr. Greene's Nervura is indeed an excellent health restorer and I have no hesitation in recommending it."

Especially to men grow weak in spring from the change of season, and every one should take this best of spring remedies, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of a famous physician, and it is therefore exactly adapted to cure. It has standing behind it the most famous and successful specialists in curing nervous, chronic or lingering diseases. Dr. Greene, 101 Fifth Ave., New York, and an added value and assurance of cure is given by the fact that the Doctor can be consulted, without charge, at your case, personally or by writing to him.

HON. THOMAS E. WATSON at Cooper Union Friday Night, Speaking On MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

SAID:

"The great God of Nature rolled from the hollow of His hand the land and all it contains—the land, the sun, the lake, the Gulf, the river and the bay; and the human family was put here to live and to multiply."

"For reasons of State, society has permitted the division of the soil into private holdings and homes just as it regulates the relations between the man and the wife. Our civilization has built itself upon the home and the marriage tie, wisely, necessarily."

"But while the State has allowed the soil to be cut up into homes, farms, gardens, mill sites—there has never been a time when these things which were essentially public in their nature and their use were not kept for the benefit of the public. Kings might grant monopolies—and did grant them—but no king ever dared to stretch his scepter across the sea."

"The story books do, indeed, tell us that the courtiers of an absolute monarch once flattered him with the assurance that he could control the ocean, but when King Canute stretched forth his scepter and bade the waves return, the insolent, impudent tide came rolling on, with an angry roar, and King Canute fled for his life. Some of our American kings may learn from that example of what the sea can do when it gets in motion."

"Nature gave us Lake Erie. Where's the politician who would dare suggest that it should be handed over to a private corporation? Nature gave us Chesapeake Bay. Who would say that it should become private property?"

"What citizen of New York would give his vote to have the North River Morganized or Belmontized or Canalized?"

"And where's the man who can see any difference between public ownership, as applied to Fifth avenue or Broadway, and public ownership as applied to the Hudson?"

"The river is not more public in its nature and its use than the street—whether that street be under the ground or above the ground."

"You tell me it is too late—private corporations already own the streets and they cannot be taken away. I answer: It is never too late to mend. It is never too late to correct a mistake or to reclaim stolen property."

"Inherent in the sovereign State, of which every city is a part, exists the right of self-preservation—the right to resist the right to subordinate special interests to general interests when the welfare of the State and city demand it."

"How did private corporations acquire the property in your public streets for railroads, telegraphs and telephones? Through the State's exercise of its right of eminent domain. In plain English the right of eminent domain means that no man whatsoever can hold an unqualified title to any property whatsoever. Always and everywhere is the reserved right of a sovereign—the State."

"To prevent the spread of fire the city blows up my house—hundreds of houses, if necessary, as Gen. Sheridan did to stop the Chicago fire. To check the spread of disease the State may have my cattle shot or my family imprisoned within rigid lines of quarantine. My life, my liberty, my property—I hold them subject to the will of the State, to be given up—life, liberty and property—whenever the salvation of the State demands it. Thus the citizen gives his property to the State when she calls upon him with tax laws. Thus the soldier and the sailor give their service and their blood when public duty demands."

"The man who is not willing to do this by this rule in good faith—this rule which requires special interest to yield to general interest—is not fit to live in any civilized community."

"By the exercise of the law of eminent domain public utilities have been taken away from the people. By the same law
